

A talk for business owners

Give AI one real job in your business

Owners often know where work gets stuck. This talk helps them choose one task for AI, name the result, and set the checks before it starts.

Who it is for

Owner groups, chambers and business teams that want a clear first step with AI.

Suggested format

A 20-minute talk and 10 minutes for questions. We can discuss a format that fits your group.

What the group takes away

A one-page worksheet, a way to choose the first job, and a clear split between AI work and human approval.

What we cover

An owner bottleneck, examples of work the Buildwise team has done, a small test, and the person who checks it. A construction example is a working review demo, not a live quoting system.

Short host introduction

"Buildwise helps owners improve their businesses without every task falling back on them. Today, the team will show us how to give AI one real job, with clear limits and work a person can check."

Ask about a talk

Share your group, location and possible date at buildwisemedia.com/speaking/. The team will review your request. Sending it does not book a speaker.
